

OpEx Assessment

Knowing where your organization stands today is an essential step on the road towards Operational Excellence. Our OpEx Assessment maps your company's current operational capabilities and is the ideal way to identify where you are on the journey towards excellence.

The identified strengths and areas for improvement can be evaluated against your business strategy and objectives (gap analysis). This creates a solid basis out of which an OpEx roadmap can be generated, priorities be set and resources be allocated.

The OpEx Assessment is the perfect approach for leaders who want an independent, transparent status of the maturity of their operations. It is suitable both for organizations that are at the starting point of an excellence program and for those that are already some steps on the way. The assessment is fitting for manufacturing as well as for service companies.

Approach

Our assessment will be tailored to the specific needs of your organization. It depends on your company size, whether a single- or multi-site analysis is required and on any other specific requirements (e.g. focus on a specific area such as process management, inclusion of up-/downstream activities, number of interviews ...).

The assessment follows a clear concept, consisting of:

- Initiation
- Interviews, desk research and data collection
- Analysis of results
- Generation and documentation of findings
- Optional: Performing Gap Analysis
- Optional: Development of an OpEx Roadmap
- Documentation
- Final presentation incl. recommendations and handover
